Convoyer's Report; After a long drive to Sennon Cove, we finally arrived on site just before 4am and watered the birds. We watered the birds again at 7am but did not open the sides of the truck until 10am due to the rain. The weather did not improve enough to liberate on Saturday. The decision was made to hold over until Sunday. We topped up the water and fed the birds at 3pm and had some dinner ourselves. We closed the sides of the lorry at around 9pm and bed down for the night. We got up at 6.30 topped up the water and waited for the weather to clear. We liberated the birds at 8.15am into a very slightly overcast sky with patches of blue and a strong South West wind. The birds left the transporter as though it was on fire and disappeared over the horizon quicker than ever before.
